

---

kick/ban window - css-variables ? [SOLVED]

Posted by ascw - 2008/01/28 15:12

---

hi.

at first: great chat module.. thanks for that.

i have just one little problem. everything works perfect with my css-file, but what variables where used for the kick/ban-window that appears when clicking at "kick/ban" in the chatter-list ?

The big prob at the moment is that this little window is background = white and font-color = light grey.... nearly impossible to read.

thanks for help

=====

Re:kick/ban window - css-variables ?

Posted by Prutkar - 2008/01/28 18:22

---

that area is a plain div with style background white, I should probably change it to some default joomla definition like contentarea or something similar. Any recommendation? (do you beleive it will be enough to remove style background white to apply default div CSS style?)

=====

Re:kick/ban window - css-variables ?

Posted by ascw - 2008/01/28 22:27

---

good morning.

yes, i think it should help if you set the background the same color it has in the content, if possible. that should fix it.

=====

Re:kick/ban window - css-variables ?

Posted by ascw - 2008/01/28 23:08

---

now it's transparent ? not so good. :)

it would help if you just make it white font on black background...

=====

Re:kick/ban window - css-variables ?

Posted by Prutkar - 2008/01/28 23:13

---

I think it is best as it is right now, till I figure out how to do "pop-up" with CSS definitions properly applied and adjust as well if definitions are not present.

=====

Re:kick/ban window - css-variables ?

Posted by ascw - 2008/01/28 23:57

---

now it's perfect ! THANK YOU FOR QUICK SUPPORT !

=====